12 Choose military route

Twelve members of the graduating class of 1982 at Appomattox County High School will not be looking for employment this summer: they have chosen to enter military service after graduation. Among these 12 are two females.

The U.S. Air Force claims high honors in recruiting this year, as six of the seniors have signed up with that branch of the military. Those six students are Doug Powell, John Elder, Mike Seamster, Bruce Reed, Tim Webb, and Dale Baldwin.

The Army also did a good job recruiting in this area, with three students, including one girl, deciding to join the army after graduation. Those students are William Thornton, Donna Pulliam, and Noel Robinson.

The Marines and Navy also will be getting students from the Class of 1982 at ACHS. Joining the Marine Corps from the senior class will be Eldridge Allen, and going into the Navy after graduation will be Ronnie Collins and Sue Granato.

About the cover

The students who started public school 12 years ago are finally on the threshold of graduation.

Young Steve Austin, son of Times-Virginian Advertising Manager Allen Austin and his wife, Vicky, seems to be comtemplating the day in the future when he too will join the ranks of Appomattox County High School graduates.
